5	I feel that SEN plans should be discussed and shared with parents of the child regularly, this does not happen. I also feel the school doesn't accommodate for working parents very well. Dates for events are never given in advance notice, sometimes only a few days prior and are always during school hours. If plenty of warning is given parents may be able to take the time off, especially considering fathers getting involved with school, having everything during the school day means that they are often the ones always missing out.	7/13/2024 8:31 PM
